STERN/SEEBURG ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE • VOLUME 1 • NUMBER 2

ONE DAY IN THE FOREST...

A pack of wolves captures a family of pigs. To keep them from the jaws of the hungry wolves, the mama pig defends her children from a cage which moves up and down on a rope

THE FIRST ATTACK...

Using balloons for flotation, 32 wolves parachute from a tree and try to knock the mama from her cage by throwing stones at her She fights back by shooting arrows and tossing meat at them If she misses, the wolves land on the ground, climb a ladder, and try to bite her If they do, she falls But if she hits the balloons, the wolves are destroyed

THE SECOND ATTACK...

Forty wolves use the balloons to rise to the top of a cliff Again, the mama tries to break the balloons with arrows and meat If seven wolves make it to the top, they push a giant rock on top of her If they don't, she wins and the little piggies are freed

BONUS FOR EFFORT...

The stages alternate and become increasingly more difficult. After every second stage, there is a bonus level They become harder and are timed.

Pooyan is controlled by a button and a joystick which moves the mama's cage up and down When the fire button is hit, she shoots her arrows or tosses the meat

Points are scored when the mama hits her targets When she pops the balloons with arrows she scores 50, 100 or 200 points "Meat bombs" can wipe out multiple wolves 400 for the first wolf; 800 for the second, 1600 for the third

PIGOUT FOR PROFIT

Pooyan features Stern's famous "works-in-a-drawer" cabinet design For added security Stern now uses an "over-under" cash box Backlit panels and colorful graphics add eye-appeal
